The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) has issued a series of guidance memos for employers, including one that says it is permissible for employers to measure the temperatures and conduct tests to detect the presence of the virus in returning workers.

COVID-19

- The most common symptom of Coronavirus COVID-19 is a high body temperature.
- The Body Temperature Kiosk (with facial recognition) allows for a non-contact check of an employee or guest's body temperature.
- A person stands in front of the kiosk and it automatically detects their temperature then indicates the result instantly. This process takes under 3 seconds.
- It's useful for employees to self-check when arriving to work, and/or customers as they enter a place of business.
- Shows Employees, Visitors & Guests that you care about their health and safety.
- It is a much more considerate and respectful process than the pointing of a temperature gun.
